SMITH HOLDS BAIT OUT TO FARM STATES

But Smith is Against Equalization Fee to Aid Farmer

New York, Aug. 3—(AP)—Governor Smith put his foot down today on the equalization fee feature of the McNary-Haugen farm bill, declaring that it was unacceptable to him.

The Democratic presidential nominee reiterated that he recognizes the principle of controlling the sale of agricultural surpluses, the cost to be borne by the group benefitted, but he has no definite plan in mind for carrying out that principle.

Smith was led into a brief discussion of his farm relief views today by newspapermen who sought more light on his statement issued yesterday after his conference with George N. Peek, Illinois farm leader, who has swung to his support.

Wants Farm Votes

New York, Aug. 3—(AP)—The Democrats are out to capture states in the upper Mississippi Valley, and with a well planned organization they intend to challenge the Republicans for every inch of ground in that farming territory.

As Governor Smith's followers see it, they already have made a dent in the lines of the opposition by enlisting the support of George N. Peek, of Illinois, supporter of Lowden for the Republican presidential nomination, and champion of farm legislation along the lines of the McNary-Haugen bill which President Coolidge vetoed.

To press their advantage, the Democrats intend to perfect a regional campaign organization designed to bring such agricultural states as Iowa, Wisconsin, the Dakotas, Illinois and others into line for the Smith-Robinson ticket headquarters probably will be in Chicago.

Corn Belt Better Ground

Plans of the Democrats to wage a finish fight in the corn and wheat belt, which usually goes Republican in presidential years, were disclosed yesterday by Chairman Raskob of the National Committee after Peek, on the heels of a conference on the farm question with Smith, announced that he had bolted the Republican party.

Peek, in a statement, in which he assailed Herbert Hoover and declared it was not necessary to wait for his acceptance speech to establish that he was no true friend of the farmer, said he was convinced Smith, if elected, would solve the farm problem "with intellectual honesty."

Previously the Democratic presidential nominee, in a statement issued after he and Peek had discussed the problem dear to the heart of the Illinois farm leader for two hours, had affirmed his intention to stand on the Democratic platform, plank by plank.

Offers Bait To Lowden

He also reiterated that, if chosen President, he would consult farm leaders and economists during the winter to formulate a concrete farm relief program, and he declared that in disregarding party lines in seeking advice he would enlist the aid of Lowden of Illinois.

In many quarters here today this pledge of Smith, although he made no reference in his statement to the equalization fee which Lowden and

OLD RECORD ON MISSISSIPPI IS STILL UNBROKEN

Speed Boat Fails to Beat Packet Time of Year 1870

Chester, Ill., Aug. 3—(AP)—The record run of ninety hours between New Orleans and St. Louis on the Mississippi remained undisturbed today.

Six hours ahead of the mark set by the packet boat Robert E. Lee in 1870, the speed boat Bogie struck a snag thirty miles below here early today and was so crippled as to be eliminated in the contest against time.

Dr. Louis Leroy, in command of the motorboat, took the disaster in good grace and made the statement that though the boat could not go on, he had demonstrated that the mark could be bettered.

In striking the snag, the propeller was broken and the drive shaft badly bent. A new propeller was put in place but the damaged shaft caused such a vibration as to break an oil line, forcing Dr. Leroy and his two companions, Captain A. A. Farris and Robert Hunter to give up the race.

Chicago Excursion To Dixon Aug. 12; Ask List of Names

Sunday, August 12, has been set by the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad Co., as the tentative date for the special excursion from Chicago to Dixon-land, mention of which was made in Thursday evening's Telegraph—and the success of the proposed innovation—the running of an excursion from Chicago instead of to that city—depends entirely on the response of the people of this community in sending the names of former Dixontes or relatives and friends living in Chicago and its suburbs who might be interested in the proposition of spending a Sunday in the old home town and surrounding beautiful territory.

The railroad company passenger officials will take care of all the work necessary in attempting to interest prospects in the trip from the metropolis to the Hub of the Black Hawk Country. All the railroad men ask is that the name of every prospect be furnished them, and in this they have enlisted the aid of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce.

The transportation company has impressed on Sec. J. H. Byers of the Chamber of Commerce and his assistant, Miss Frances Patrick, the necessity of getting these names at the earliest possible moment—therefore the local workers are appealing to the people of Dixon and vicinity that they phone or mail the names and addresses of anyone in Chicago and vicinity who they think might be interested in the opportunity of coming to Dixon on a special excursion train, at excursion rates, to spend a day in this beautiful territory.

BRITISH FLIERS IN NARROW ESCAPE AS PLANE TAKES FIRE

Rescued After Ten Hours Of Tossing On Mid-Atlantic

New York, Aug. 3—(AP)—Captain Frank T. Courtney and three companions, forced down in mid-Atlantic in a burning plane, were safely on their way to their New York goal today on board the British liner Minnewaska.

A suggestion of the hazards they had faced was contained in a brief message to Mrs. Courtney in London. "Had to come down owing to fire. Nothing to worry about," radioed the British airman. There was never a hint in his message of the ten hours of tossing on the ocean waves which followed the descent until they were rescued.

The plane, on which Courtney had concentrated months of endeavor in the hope of realizing his ambition to fly the Atlantic westward, was abandoned to the sea which had claimed it. This information was relayed by the steamer Cedric.

There were forced down while attempting a flight from Horta, Azores, to Newfoundland. They had proceeded approximately 600 miles on their flight. With their short wave radio apparatus they sent out SOS calls which sent several ships rushing to their assistance. The Minnewaska won the race of mercy and took the fliers aboard.

"Rescued Captain Courtney and crew from plane. All is well," Captain Claret of the Minnewaska wireless to the Radio Marine Corporation late yesterday afternoon when fears were beginning to be felt that the plane had sunk and the fliers were lost.

The Minnewaska is due to dock at New York Monday morning.

Drifted With Current

For nearly ten hours Courtney and his three companions, E. D. Hosmer, Montreal banker and backer of the flight, E. W. Gilmour, radio operator, and Fred Pierce, mechanic, had been drifting helplessly on a strong current.

When they landed on the water and sent out their SOS calls they gave their position as 42 north latitude, 41 west longitude. The Minnewaska found them, however, at 42.27 north, 39.05 west, almost a hundred miles from their original position and approximately 1,500 miles from New York.

It was shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday morning that the first message came telling of the fliers plight. "Need immediate help but in no immediate danger," it said.

Many Ships Heard Them.

The President Hayes was the first to reach the latitude and longitude Courtney had given and when he reported no sign of the fliers fears arose. The silence of their radio, not heard for hours, added to the fears. Then came the message giving the plane's new position and a short time later word from the Minnewaska that she had sighted flying boat, named the "Whale." The message telling of the rescue came an hour later.

The failure which attended Captain Courtney's latest effort to fly the Atlantic is only one of a long series of misfortunes which have dogged his footsteps for eighteen months, ever since he first announced his plans to fly the Atlantic.

Shannon Will Give Dixon Real Battle

Sunday afternoon should witness a struggle of magnitude on the Dixon Independents' diamond. Eighth street and Van Buren avenue, when the Shannon Black Hawk League team will clash with the Independents, who will strive to maintain their hold on second place in the league race. That Shannon will furnish no mean opposition is certain, when it is recalled that they defeated the league-leading Polo aggregation, 2 to 0, last Sunday.

The Independents have strengthened their team considerably, having signed Prestegard, "French" Henry and a newcomer named Henly, who can play either infield or outfield positions, and who is said to be strong with the old war club.

Shannon, also, has bolstered its lineup with two men from Peoria and another from Savanna. Their pitcher, "Lefty" Erdmer, is so good he has been promised a trial with the Waterloo team of the Mississippi Valley league.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Richardson and daughter Alice will leave Saturday for an automobile trip to the Black Hills, the Yellowstone and the Jackson Hole country.

Edward S. Condon of radio station WLS, Chicago, a former Dixon boy, is here for a short visit with friends.

JAMES RAIDER PULLED FROM JAWS OF DEATH

Dixontes Rescued from Lowell Park Beach After Closing Hours

James Raider, 625 Douglas avenue, was rescued from drowning at the Lowell park bathing beach last night about 9:30 by Life Guard Ronald "Dutch" Reagan, making his twenty-fifth rescue in the two seasons which he has served at the popular beach. The beach had been closed for the day, when Raider, who was a member of a party of four persons, entered the water in violation of the beach rules.

Caretaker Edward Graybill and Life Guard Reagan were engaged in closing the bath house when their attention was called to the beach where Raider is said to have ventured out beyond his depth. Not being a proficient swimmer, he had gone down once before his condition became known and the guard hurried out to rescue him. It was not until after quite a struggle in the water that Raider was brought to the shore. One of the members of the party who was said to have attempted to rescue him, was forced to abandon the attempt when he too was in danger of being taken down. Raider responded to artificial respiration when he was carried to the bank and was taken to his home.

Rules Are Disregarded

The park board officers were notified this morning of the utter disregard of the rules at the Lowell beach, and of parties entering the water late at night after the beach has closed. In many instances the beach attendants have been defied when they have attempted to enforce the rules for the protection of the lives of the bathers.

Orders were issued today to enforce the beach rules and hours of closing to the letter and if necessary, more stringent action will be taken in the cases of willful violations. This is the second near drowning in two weeks, which has resulted from violation of the beach rules.

FRED STONE BADLY HURT ATTEMPTING SOLO AIR FLIGHT

Noted Comedian In Hospital After His Plane Nosedives

New London, Conn., Aug. 3—(AP)—Fred Stone, comedian, is in a hospital here suffering from a badly crushed right leg and injuries to his face and head received when a Travelair biplane which he was flying solo, crashed near Groton airport when its engine went dead.

Stone had been in the air ten minutes and was returning to the flying field when the motor stopped. The plane went into a nose dive. Stone was flying low at the time and was unable to right the plane and it continued on down burying its nose in the ground. Stone was pinned in the wreckage until persons living in the vicinity and who had seen the fall reached the spot and helped him to extricate himself.

Holds Student License.

The veteran actor, who holds a student fliers license, came to Groton this morning with his daughter Paula, in the plane in which he later crashed, but which at that time was being piloted by Lieutenant John J. Campan, his flight instructor.

The trio landed Stone decided to try a solo flight and taking his place at the controls, took off from the field. He circled over the field several times, gradually widening his circle until he was some miles distant. After about ten minutes of this he started back to the field and he was within a few miles of the field when he crashed.

Stone has a summer estate in Lyme, Conn., which he calls Star Ranch, and it was from there that the party flew to Groton this morning.

From the farm where he crashed, he was brought by automobile to the hospital here, a distance of several miles.

Funeral Sunday For Mrs. Hennie

(Telegraph Special Service)

Franklin Grove, Aug. 3—The funeral of Mrs. Ella Taylor Hennie, who passed away Thursday morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. D. R. Timothy, south of Franklin Grove, will be held Sunday. Services will be conducted from the Timothy home at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Rev. Tavenner officiating and with interment in the Franklin Grove cemetery.

KING GEORGE IN PRAISE OF THE KELLOGG TREATY

British King Sees Guarantee of Peace, in Proposal

London, Aug. 3—(AP)—Confident that the Kellogg pact to outlaw war will be an important guarantee of peace was expressed by King George in proroguing parliament today.

The speech from the throne said: "My government has been happy to accept the proposed treaty for the renunciation of war in the form in which it was finally proposed to them by the government of the United States. The proposed treaty has similarly been accepted by my government in the Dominions and my government of India."

"It is my confident expectation that when completed it will constitute a new and important guarantee of the world's peace."

ELLER AND SON IN LIST OF INDICTED FOR VOTING FRAUD

20th Ward Boss And Son, Judge Eller and Sen. Lenardo Named

Chicago, Aug. 3—(AP)—Morris Eller, collector and self-styled "boss" of the twentieth ward, and his son, Judge Emanuel Eller, who recently had acted as Chief Justice of the Criminal court, were among twenty persons named today in a blanket conspiracy indictment returned by the special grand jury investigating violence and fraud in connection with the April primaries.

Morris Eller appeared before the grand jury this week as a witness. Judge Eller recently was attacked by the Chicago Bar Association for reducing bonds of those indicted by the special grand jury. Both have termed the inquiry a political move by their enemies.

The blanket indictment charges conspiracy to commit vote frauds in the twentieth ward. State Senator James B. Leonard also was named in the indictment as was Abe Klaus, a relative of the Ellers. Most of the others have been named previously in former indictments or were described as Eller workers in the twentieth ward.

The July grand jury which returned the blanket indictment along with other charges kidnapping and assault to kill, completed its work today and is to be succeeded by a third special grand jury to carry on the inquiry.

The grand jury in a report said it had found wholesale frauds took place on primary day and condemned present election laws as inadequate, inefficient and antiquated. It recommended that the law be changed to allow a grand jury to continue past its term to clear up matters before it. In all, 24 indictments were returned. In its report the jury said it had found evidence of whole families serving as election workers at various polls.

TWO MURDERERS PAY PENALTY IN BALTIMORE PEN

Witnesses Are Horror Stricken as Condemned Strangled to Death

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 3—(AP)—Charles C. Country Carey and Benjamin F. Spradford, paid with their lives early this morning for the killing of Albert H. Walker, prison clerk, in an attempted escape from the Maryland state penitentiary in July of 1927, when they were hanged in the death house of the prison from which they sought to escape.

Neither of the men's necks was broken in the first fall through the trap, and the bodies were left hanging until the victims had been strangled to death.

Too Much For Witnesses

Carey was the first of the two to pay the penalty shortly after midnight. Of the 60 witnesses in the death chamber when he was dropped through the trap, but 13 remained when Spradford was led in, the remainder having fled to the prison yard, some to overcome to speak by the labored breathing of Carey as he was strangled to death.

SISTERS REUNITED

Mrs. Albert Hauser, 901 Long avenue, is entertaining her sister, Mrs. Mary Meier of Zurich, Switzerland, who arrived in the United States recently to make her home. Her visit to Dixon marks the first meeting of the sisters in 18 years. Mrs. Meier will leave tomorrow for Milwaukee, Wis., where she will make her future home with her son, Louis Meier, who formerly resided in Dixon.

"LIMPY" CLEAVER GET 25 YEARS IN PEN FOR ROBBERY

Leader Of Big Mail Robbery To Go To Atlanta At Once

Chicago, Aug. 3—(AP)—Charles "Limpy" Cleaver, ring leader of the band of robbers that held up a Grand Trunk train at Evergreen Park last February, obtaining $133,000, today was sentenced by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to serve 25 years in Atlanta Federal prison and fined $10,000 after his motion for a new trial had been overruled.

Cleaver actually was sentenced to serve the 82 years but it was provided that the sentences run concurrently so that he will serve only the longest term, that of 25 years.

Judge Wilkerson said he would entertain a motion to vacate the judgment for an appeal and set the appeal bond at $230,000. The motion will be heard in September but it was said Cleaver will be taken to Atlanta at once.

Judge Wilkerson said he would entertain a motion also to return to Cleaver $9,500 which is over the $17,000 seized in Cleaver's home and which the government claims was his share of the loot.

The three confessed robbers who testified as government witnesses will not be sentenced until after Wharton's motion for a new trial is disposed of, the federal attorney said.

HOOVER WORKS TO GET SPEECH READY FOR NOTIFICATION

Nation Waits With Interest For His Words On Issues

Stanford University, Cal., Aug. 3—(AP)—Behind the thick oaken door which shuts off the study in his hillside home here, Herbert Hoover devoted today to putting the finishing touches to the most momentous address of his career, that accepting the Republican nomination for president.

In this address, to be delivered in the Stanford stadium one week from tomorrow, he will present his views on the two now most discussed issues of the campaign, prohibition and farm relief, and mention other issues which he believes must have their weight in the scales by which the voters will measure the candidates on November 6.

Much Interest In Speech

As important as Hoover's pronouncements may be upon these subjects, astute political observers will study his address for something more, for those things which will reflect his personality and disclose to the nation his philosophy of government.

Since this is Hoover's first address upon the highway to elective office, leaders of his party frankly say that these things will be of high importance.

The Republican nominee has insisted upon preparing the address word by word in his own language and his own literary style. He has sought advice from many sources upon a variety of subjects, and he has had advice thrust upon him. All has been weighed with the care with which he handles problems, but his closest advisers have asserted that the ultimate decision as to what is to be said and the manner of the saying has been his own.

Says Peek Is Democrat

Before getting down to work after his arrival home yesterday, Hoover conferred with two party leaders, Dante Pierce of Des Moines, Iowa, publisher of farm weeklies, and Nathan William MacChesney, of Chicago, who has been charged with the duty of perfecting state and county organizations in all states west of Ohio, under the direction of James W. Good of Iowa, western manager in the Republican campaign organization.

Pierce declined to state specifically the matters he had taken up with the candidate, but he discussed at some length the visits made to Governor Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential candidate, by George N. Peek, of Moine, Illinois, chairman of the corn belt committee of twenty-two. Pierce declared that the farmers of the mid-west never would trust their destinies to "Tammany Hall," and said that Peek is and always has been a Democrat. He indicated his own belief that Peek would be unable to swing any large number of farm votes to the Democratic ticket.

CLINTON BEATS DIXON

A score of golfers from the Clinton Country club came to Dixon yesterday afternoon and engaged the members of the Dixon Country Club in an inter-city match on the local course. J. N. Wilkinson of Dixon was winner of the low score for the afternoon, making the 18 holes in 70.

The visitors were too much for the Dixon golfers and won the match by a score of 38 to 11. Following the match play, the Clinton delegation were guests at a 6:30 dinner at the club house, which was followed by a smoker.

HARVARD BEAT JAPS

Sloten, Holland, Aug. 3—(AP)—The Harvard four-oared crew with coxswain, representing the United States in the Olympic regatta here, got back into the running for the championship in its class by defeating the Japanese quartet today.

Mrs. L. R. Miller of West Brooklyn underwent an operation for the removal of tonsils at the Dixon Hospital today.

Miss Caroline Eddy, who was injured by getting lime in her eye, is improving nicely and it is reported she will lose little, if any vision.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Turner returned home last evening from a short visit in Chicago.

Terse Items of News Gathered in Dixon During Day

TOM RICHARDS MUCH WORSE

Slight hope was entertained today for the recovery of J. Thomas Richards, who is a patient at the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn. Word received last evening was to the effect that his condition was much worse and that an emergency operation would probably be attempted today. The operation was to have been undertaken Wednesday, but on account of the weakened condition of the patient it was abandoned.

ADMITTED TO BAR

Two Dixon young people are among the successful candidates for admission to the bar who have passed the bar examination conducted this week by the State Board of Law Examiners, of which Judge James W. Watts of this city is a veteran member. The successful Dixontes are Miss Freda Wiennan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Wiennan, and Robert Dixon, son of the late Attorney Henry S. Dixon and wife.

RECOVERS FROM INJURY

Contractor E. A. Pomeroy of Lee Center is able to be about again, having partially recovered from injuries sustained a few days ago, while engaged in moving a stone crushing outfit from Inlet to the Birdsall bridge in Lee Center township. Mr. Pomeroy, who is the father of Officer Dick Pomeroy of the local police department, was pinned beneath a heavy plank platform, while the machine was being moved. Fortunately, he escaped without sustaining any broken bones and while he was laid up at his home for several days, he is again able to be about his duties.

TRACE HIDDEN MOTORCYCLE

The Harley-Davidson motorcycle, which was found wrecked and hidden in a brush pile on the Lover's Lane road south of Dixon Wednesday afternoon, is believed to have been stolen from Indianapolis. Phillip Watts and "Sonny" Whipperman discovered an excavation near the place where the machine was found, while playing yesterday afternoon, and digging down into the hole, found the license plates. These they turned over to Sheriff Ward Miller and it is presumed that these will prove important in locating the ownership of the machine. Sheriff Miller telegraphed the license numbers to the Secretary of State of Indiana today.

GOOD GAME TONIGHT

Exceptional interest is being shown by fans of the Industrial Base Ball League in tonight's game between the Merchants and the I. N. U. team which will be played at the Singer diamond at 5:30 o'clock, and a big crowd is certain if the weather remains auspicious. The rivalry between these two teams is intense and each will put forth its very best.

WILL TREAT GUARDMEN

A fund to provide "smokes" for the members of Company A of the 129th Infantry, I. N. G., now in camp at Camp Grant, Rockford, has been started at the Stratton and Covert cigar store, which is being subscribed to liberally. It is expected that quite a delegation will go from Dixon to Camp Grant next Tuesday to be present at the "Governor's Day" celebration, and on this occasion it is planned to give the members of the Dixon company a treat, by furnishing them with cigarettes, cigars, etc.

Surprise The Audience

Idzikowski, however, threw himself into the work and brought the biplane off in a masterly fashion, appearing to just miss the roofs of the military hangars.

The take off was so swift that M. Aniot, the builder of the plane, was astounded and threw his hands, crying:

"He must be crazy. He will crash. But the Poles did not crash and soared away and in two minutes were lost to sight. It was the shortest run ever seen at Le Bourget for such a type of plane."

The Polish plane was escorted by five planes. One carried M. Carol, chief engineer of the Lorraine factory which built the engine, the others were a military escort commanded by Major Pinsord and assigned to stay with the airman until they were safely out to sea.

Take Few Provisions

The Polish airman had not overhauled themselves with provisions. Their modest larder contained but one cold chicken, some chocolate, some coffee, one bottle of champagne and four small flasks of brandy for emergencies.

Idzikowski carried with him their only mascot—three or four roses given him by a French girl friend.

They headed westward for Lorient on the coast and they intended to go to the Azores. Without stopping there the fliers expected to curve northward toward Halifax or they might head straight for New York. The flight by way of Halifax would be about 4,000 miles and it would be about 3,800 miles direct to New York.

The Poles had fuel for more than two full days and nights of flying. They expected to drop down in New York on Saturday about dusk. They thought the trip would take from 41 to 42 hours but were sure they could stay in the air for 56 hours if necessary.

H. W. Laudieer of Sterling submitted to an operation at the Dixon Hospital this morning.

TRYING NON-STOP FLIGHT FROM FRANCE

Hope To Be The First To Make The East To West Trip

Le Bourget, France, August 3—(AP)—Two Polish knights of the air sped westward with the dawn today hoping to make the first non-stop east to west flight to New York from France.

Majors Louis Idzikowski and Kazimir Kubala of the Polish air service hopped off a 15:46 A. M. (correct Paris daylight time, 11:46 P. M. Thursday, Eastern Standard time) in their plane christened Marszałek Jlsudski in honor of the Polish Dictator.

The hopes of the airmen were high although the barometer was low. They went against the advice of the French weather service.

The fliers expected to land at New York on Saturday afternoon after a flight of from 3,000 to 4,000 miles, depending on the wind followed. The airman circled widely around the Paris suburbs and signaled to escorting planes that all was going well by waving their arms. The Polish plane seemed to be flying smoothly and powerfully.

After the airmen hopped off later weather reports were received. While they were not too favorable they offered at least more chances of success than any conditions which prevailed recently.

"Well, What Of It?"

"Nitehove" was the last word Idzikowski spoke to friends. His Russian expression equivalent to "well, what of it?" seemed to sum up the attitude of the fliers toward their hazardous adventure. They took no radio and their only precaution for safety was a collapsible rubber boat, which, they said, would probably prove useless if they crashed.

Idzikowski, wearing a leather coat over street clothes, climbed into the plane first. He took the pilot's seat. Kubala in light dungarees took the navigator's post behind.

When the start was made the aviators were ready to give their utmost but they realized success was in the laps of the gods. Kubala was cool and practical to the last minute. Idzikowski was very white in the face as he huddled down his goggles and lunched over the controls.

With the motor roaring and spitting red and blue flames, the fliers gave a last wave of their hands and started the plane trundling down the field accompanied by cries of encouragement. As the engine got up speed and began to bound over the uneven field it seemed that the plane would never rise from the ground with its heavy load.

"They'll never make it," cried numerous and restores one to health." Mrs. C. Underhill, 719 Madison Ave. Dixon, just recently said in a conversation with the Gly-Cas man who is at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, explaining this great new vegetable compound to crowds of local people.

"I had been suffering from stomach trouble and constipation with attendant ill, such as headache, dizziness and loss of appetite for 6 or 7 years," Mrs. Underhill continued. "From continued use of Laxatives my bowels finally got in such condition that only the use of the strongest medicines would act on them. For three and four days at a time my bowels would be inactive. Even ordinary foods distressed me, causing bloating and shortness of breath and often at night I could not sleep."

"But Gly-Cas proved far beyond my expectations for it as a stomach and bowel remedy, compared with the medicines I had been using. How this medicine gets to the root of suffering and restores one to health is surprising. For once in years my bowels have been regulated and without the use of laxatives. I have a fine appetite, my stomach disorders have entirely gone and I am not exaggerating when I say I feel like a new woman. The effect of Gly-Cas in my case simply surpassed my expectations."

Peek have championed, was regarded as significant.

Previous to the Kansas City convention the former Illinois Governor insisted that he did not want the republican presidential nomination if the party platform on farm relief was unacceptable. After the platform was adopted—and it appeared certain that nothing could head off Hoover—he withdrew from the race, stating flatly that the party stand on the farm question did not meet with his approval.

Since then Lowden has made no move. Republicans are hoping to bring him in line; Democrats are planning to make the most of dissatisfaction over his turn down and the rejection by the administration of the farm plan he championed.

Silent on Equalization Fee
In the statement which he issued after his conference with Peek, Gov. Smith promised to discuss the farm question at length in his acceptance speech in Albany three weeks hence. He steered clear from the equalization fee, confining himself to the observation that he stood by the Democratic platform which recognized that the cost of handling agricultural surplus should be borne by the unit involved.

Peek commenting on this, said that this did not mean that Smith was accepting the equalization fee. As he looked on it, the end could be arrived at in other ways.

The plan of the Democrats to wage battle for the farming states was disclosed as Gov. Smith was spending the last of the week in New York. After his conference yesterday with Peek, he went on a cruise into Long Island Sound on the yacht of his friend, William H. Todd.

He was in no hurry to return to New York and its heat for another

HE LIKES TAMMANY

Charlotte, N. C., August 3. (AP)—Former Governor Morrison wishes Governor Smith were a Presbyterian and "a little drier" but is "glad he belongs to Tammany."

Opening the campaign in Mecklenburg county, Morrison said in an address last night that Tammany Hall had done more for the South than any other organization of the northern states.

"In those terrifying days of reconstruction Tammany fought our battles," he declared. "Tammany carried New York state for Seymour against Grant. Of course there are some crooks in that body and have been some, but in all history Tammany has never stolen as much as the Republicans since the Harding administration."

OPPOSED TO SMITH
Raleigh, N. C., August 3. (AP)—An organization opposed to Governor Smith was formed here last night by a group of Wake county democrats. The meeting was attended by the Rev. C. A. Upchurch, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League.

RAY BARBUTI
WINS GLORY
IN OLYMPICSAmerican Brings U. S.
First Running Victory
In Great Race

Olympic Stadium, Amsterdam, Aug. 3. (AP)—Ray Barbuti brought the United States its first running victory of the Olympic games by winning the 400 meter championship today.

Big Barbuti, former Syracuse University football star, scored in brilliant style over a field of the greatest quarter miler in the world.

His victory saved the United States from utter rout in the track events as this was the last of the Olympic cinder path races with the exception of the relays.

Was Close to Record
Barbuti's time was 4 4-5 seconds, which is within 1-5 second of the Olympic record.

The American barely withstood a terrific closing drive to beat James Ball of Canada by inches and collapsed after scoring his victory.

Herman Phillips of the Illinois A. C., the second American to reach the final, also placed among the point winners, finishing sixth.

Collapses at Tape
Barbuti, giving every ounce of energy and heart, raced into the stretch with the lead, having passed the two Germans, Buchner and Storz, but began to falter with the tape in sight.

He fought his way forward as Ball rushed up gaining at every stride. The American barely got to the tape first, falling forward full length on the track.

The point score for the 17 men's track and field events completed thus far, including the two which took place today, follows, the totals being computed under the unofficial but general system of awarding ten points for first, five for second, four for third, three for fourth, two for fifth and one for sixth:

United States, 142.
Finland, 64.
Great Britain, 40.
Sweden, 37.
Germany, 34.
Canada, 33.
Japan, 15.
South Africa, 14.
France, 10.
Ireland, 10.
Norway, 7.
Hungary, 5.
Haiti, 5.

Barbuti drew the pole position while Phillips was far outside. Phillips was off in flashy style and led at the half way point with Barbuti running easily. The Germany favorite Joachim Buchner made his bid around the last turn and moved out, followed by his countryman, Harry Storz.

Was A Great Race.
Barbuti, picking up, gained rapidly and had a clear four yards with 50 meters to go. The Canadian, Ball, timed his spring too late and failed by less than 1 foot to catch the American who fought to the finish courageously.

The order of finish in this great race was Barbuti, U. S., Ball, Canada, Buchner, Germany; Rinkel, Britain; Storz, Germany, and Phillips, U. S.

With a single exception Barbuti's was the fastest 400 meters in Olympic history. Eric Liddell of Great Britain won the event in Paris in 1924. Liddell's time was 47 3-5.

Phillips Set Pace.
Although Phillips brought the United States one point he finished last in the field numbered but six. He weakened somewhat after setting a killing pace.

The American contingent which has been sitting gloomily for five days went wild as the big Syracusean won this event for America for the first time since 1912.

Barbuti, in the center of an excited and happy group of American officials in the dressing room, smiled at his bruises and skin torn in his headlong finishing drive.

"I wanted to see the Stars and Stripes go up that middle pole so bad I felt like going out and raising it myself," Barbuti declared, to which head coach Lawson Robertson replied: "You did."

BLUE-EYED DAISY

There are few annual flowers grown in the garden more valuable for cutting than the arctotis, blue-eyed African daisy. One loves it for the restful tones of its foliage and flowers. The leaves are gray-green; the upper surfaces of the petals, white; the reverse, pale lilac-blue; the center, or "eye," steel-blue. The cut blooms close sleepily at night. They will last a week or more in water, and if cut buds are placed in a sunny window, every one will open into a perfectly developed flower.

Sow the seeds in the warm soil where they will germinate in about a week. Transplant the seedlings to stand 15 inches apart. They may be expected to bloom generously from July until frost.

Bridge Made Easy

WHEN NOT TO FINESSE

The foregoing illustrations show the most common finesses. However, the maneuver is not always necessary and sometimes it is inadvisable. Assume, for example, that you are the declarer and the trumps are distributed between yourself and the dummy as follows: declarer, A Q 9 8 7 6; dummy, J 10 4 3 2.

Your combined hands contain eleven trumps. The King and 5 are out against you. You want to avert the loss of a trick in trumps. The most probable distribution of the two remaining trumps is one in each of your opponent's hands. Playing the Jack up to the Ace first round is likely to draw out both the King and 5, leaving east and west blank of trumps. If the King does not fall, you still have the lead and can control the next play.

If, on the other hand, you finesse, you have only an even chance. We thus arrive at the rule that it is best not to finesse when you hold:

- 1—Any eleven or more cards of one suit.
- 2—Ten cards of one suit including Ace and King.
- 3—Nine cards of one suit including Ace, King and Jack.

As a general guide, finesse a long suit when you hold:

- 1—Ten cards in that suit with King missing; finesse once with this holding.
- 2—Nine cards in that suit with the King missing; finesse at least once with this holding and watch the fall of the cards for information.

Never take an unnecessary finesse if game may thereby be sacrificed. When game is assured without finessing, do not risk it.

DEAUVILLE DISPLAY SHOWS SPORT WEAR—
Deauville—(AP)—Great crowds attended the recent "Elegance Sportive" annual fashion show at which "male mannequins" an innovation of the season, added more than usual interest.

Feminine bathing costumes were characterized by an almost general fondness for diagonal designs. Trunks of a single color with diamond shaped motifs on the jersey were featured by several important houses. They were much more subdued than masculine bathing attire.

The show opened with a presentation of two mannequins in bathing attire from Paul Polret. Their costumes, bathing capes and beach umbrellas formed an ensemble of color and design. Models from Patou were conspicuous by their severe simplicity and were given enthusiastic applause.

Short woolen tights predominated for beach wear. Sport dresses from Eer, Worth and Lucien Lelong followed. Other exhibitors were Philippe and Gaston and Premet.

The chief impression throughout was one of marked simplicity. Foulita, the Japanese artist, designed his own costume and that of Mme. Bertes, wife of Don Bertes, well known fellow artist. Their costumes matched and consisted of white satin jerseys with white flannel trunks.

The male mannequins were well known Paris stage personalities.

Short Interviews with Famous Women

By NEA Service

"It is time women broke away from the idea that there are certain womanly jobs and other jobs that only men should hold."

This is the opinion of Amy Wren, recently appointed Deputy State Attorney General, the first woman in the east to receive such an honor.

"Take the law, for instance," Miss Wren said. "While there are not many women in the legal profession, every woman lawyer I know has been successful in her work. Why shouldn't women just go into whatever lines they want, as persons, not just as women?"

As a woman when it came to my legal work, I wish to stand equal with the men. I am trying to administer the office of Federal Commissioner as a man would.

"Personally I do not like the jobs the world ordinarily calls 'womanly work.' In my work I deal mostly with men, though I will say women seem to be going into the bootlegging business so things may change! If I were a judge, I should prefer to be a magistrate, for I have never seen why women judges should be only in the women's and children's courts."

"Men have a way of being shocked at the idea of a woman taking this or that position. Then some woman does it and it seems perfectly all right. The time really has passed when women couldn't do what they wanted to. Now they should cease thinking of women at work as different from men at the same jobs."

Aid Society of St. James Held Meeting
The Ladies Aid Society of St. James met at the beautiful country home of Mrs. John Hagerman Wednesday. A fair attendance of members and several visitors enjoyed the most appetizing dinner served at noon by Mrs. Hagerman.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Topper. A short business session was held and a short program included numbers by the following—Piano solo by Frances Miller; Reading by Rev. Fischer; Whistling solo by Mrs. Charles Rosbrook. A social hour was enjoyed and then all departed for their homes wishing that these delightful meetings came oftener, and voting Mrs. Hagerman a royal entertainer.

Attention is called here to an ice cream social to be held at the St. James church Friday evening, Aug. 10th, to which the public is invited.

The next meeting place of the Aid Society will be planned later.

Enjoyed Delightful Vacation Trip
A. E. Sheffield and family have returned from a two weeks' vacation trip, visiting many points of interest in Michigan, Canada, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

The many miles of paved road through the thrifty fruit belt of Michigan; the vast timber lands and mining sections of the upper peninsula; the big government locks at Soo, Michigan; and the wonderful city of Duluth were all of especial interest.

For several days they occupied a summer cottage in the lake region of Wisconsin on the Bruce River, near where the President is spending the summer.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

A beauty expert prophesies that there will be no homely women in 50 years. The beauty of women will be as taken for granted, she says as the green of the grass or the pink of the rose. Which means, automatically, that there will be no such thing in our barren lives as the thrill that comes from seeing a truly beautiful woman. For beauty is in proportion to its rarity. A world of all beautiful women would mean that the ugly woman would be the beauty. For what would it profit a woman to have eyes like purple or brown, hair like spun gold, cheeks like the carnation rose, and teeth like pearls, if these attributes were only the taken-for-granted things of woman?

But then, no such disaster will ever come. A world of all beautiful women is as remote as a world with no poverty or sin.

SILLY STUNT!

The offer of $50 for every baby born to one of his employees by Henry Field, head of a seed company in Iowa, makes one murmur only "just like a man!" Seriously, in the light of facts which cannot be dodged, facts which prove that the world's population is increasing out of all proportion to its mortality and its production of food, a real humanitarian would offer $50 each year to every employee who refrained from having a baby!

ILL OF ILLNESS

Illness cost every family in the United States $134.68 and each person $1.08 each year, according to Dr. Homer Folks of New York speaking in Paris before the International Conference of Social Work. This makes the country's yearly sickness bill $15,000,000,000. The country spends, he says, about $76,000,000 a year for the prevention of illness.

Just another way of saying that the problem of illness is the problem for the average man or woman today.

NICE OLD LADY

Mrs. Christine Heim of Sandusky, C., was 101 the other day. She celebrated by declaring that the world is no worse now than when she was a girl; that things are just different, that's all; that she wished she had been a girl of today; that she just loves seeing the pretty things having a good time; that she herself is crazy about dancing, loves life, and hopes she'll have many more birthdays.

Here's warning that here's one old lady who is no "old person" problem in her home. Most such problems arise not from age but from mere cantankerousness endured with more difficulty from the old than the young. Old age can be as tolerant and sweet and wanted as young age.

WANTS FAGLESS WIFE

Because his wife smoked cigars and would not stop at his request, a Cleveland man recently asked for a divorce from the smoking wife. "To be sure, coughed just like this," there is no ground for complaint. Any woman today has a right to smoke, if she wants to. There are many wives, however, who, while they rather like the little white tubes, eschew them for something which they believe much more worth while—their husbands' approval.

A certain man gave his blood in a transfusion to save a woman's life.

ETHEL

Goat-Getters

More Truth Than Poetry!

Waist Not?

Want Not!

The woman recovered and the two fell in love. When the publicity of their romance and approaching marriage broke forth science reared upon its hind legs and said "No, no!" explaining that the co-mingling of blood would make such a marriage positively incestuous, and asking for a new law including this case in other "thou shalt nots" of marriage.

It will be only a matter of time, of course, before a newer school of science cries "taint so at all," and acts to repeal any such law. The most discouraging phase of this modern world is split viewpoint even in the world of supposed facts. Go to any trial, for instance, and watch one psychiatrist declare that the accused is insane and another of equally good standing declare that the accused is not insane.

Anyway, here's hoping that the two lovers manage to get married with the full approval of science!

Dinner at Country Club Honored Guests

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Pattullo and daughter Miss Marian, who have just returned from a delightful tour in their car through England and Scotland, and who are now guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lager, in this city, Mesdames Lager and Pattullo being sisters, were guests of honor at a delightful and informal dinner at the Country Club on Tuesday evening. The dinner was attended by twenty-eight and afterward a happy evening was spent at bridge.

Colorful mid-summer flowers and candles beautifully decorated the dinner tables. The evening was much enjoyed by all in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Pattullo and daughter are leaving soon in their car for Oregon, their home.

TWO RARE OLD BOOKS—
BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Vice President and Mrs. Dawes have a large dictionary of the English language lying conspicuously on a table in their living room. The dictionary, which most of us stick away in some remote corner of a bookcase and never look at ourselves, is given the place of honor it deserves.

And doesn't the honest frankness of displaying so useful a book delight you? That reminds us of another book that is seldom seen on living room tables. It, too, occupies an inconspicuous place, usually in a bookcase. If it occupies any place at all, thousands of people never see it from one year's end to the other unless they go into a hotel bedroom.

Is it from delicacy of feeling? Hardly that so much as a shrinking from being thought religious. As a rule, people do not shrink from being thought intelligent. Consider the average living room table of the day. All the up-to-date smart looks are there. Prize novels, high-brow magazines, and biographies—Napoleon, Disraeli, Bismark, and others. Excellent reading, all of it, and a credit to the taste of the American reading public. Perhaps we shall find a volume or two of the old classics also. Most real friends are faithful to old friends.

But isn't there a desire, also, to advertise our knowledge and up-to-dateness? We like our friends to see that we know what's what and who's who in literature.

Why is that other book so seldom found there, the greatest classic, the greatest history, the greatest biography of them all? Why can't we learn to take a pride in our religion as well as our minds?

Trout is Burning Issue With Hoover

Aboard Hoover Train Enroute for San Francisco, Aug. 2—(AP)—More and better trout and less time between bites are regarded by Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, as the "burning" issues in Northern California, where he has spent the last three days fishing.

The nominee so expressed himself last night before boarding his train for San Francisco, where he was due this morning and after he had spent a rather unprofitable day casting for mountain trout in Medicine Lake, 47 miles east of Shasta Springs where his party awaited him.

Hoover, his son Allan, his secretary, George Akerson, and his friend, Thomas T. C. Gregory of San Francisco were so late in getting back to the Shasta Springs Hotel last night that those waiting him there began to grow anxious and started telephoning about the country to locate the nominee. While the telephone operators were kept busy the Hoover party drove up.

The Republican presidential nominee, his face red from the contact with the sun, was the first to leave the car, but he was surrounded before he could get into the door of his cottage.

"Mr. Secretary, we were all beginning to worry about you," he was told. Hoover smiled and said there was no need for worry; that the party had stopped at McCloud for dinner and then had motored around the base of Mount Shasta for a time.

"How many fish did you catch?" was the next question shot at the candidate.

"Well we didn't have very much luck," Hoover replied with a smile. "We held a conference and decided that more and better trout and less time between the bites is the burning issue in these counties of northern California."

Smith Casting Eye on Farmers' Vote
New York, Aug. 2—(AP)—After a two hour conference today with George N. Peek a farm leader from Illinois, Governor Smith reiterated that he stood on the farm plank of the Democratic platform, and indicated that he had not yet worked out in his own mind how agricultural surplus should be handled for the benefit of the farmer.

The Democratic presidential nominee declared that in carrying out his plan, if elected, to obtain the advice of farm leaders and economists on working out the surplus problem he would call on Republicans like Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, as well as Democrats, to assist him.

THE CHEMIST IS KING.

It has long been obvious that the modern chemist is the man who sways the destinies of nations.

But the fact has never been presented quite so forcibly as in a recent address by Prof. O. R. Sweeney, of Iowa State College, before the American Chemical Society Institute in Chicago.

The lowly cornstalk, said Professor Sweeney, can replace both coal and oil in our industrial system. Gasoline can be made from it; paper, rayon wall board, fireproof tile, synthetic lumber and insulating materials are a few of the other by-products. Cornstalks are full of cellulose, from which 3000 commercial products can be made. Practically all the synthetic products now made from coal tar and other distillates of coal—and their name is legion—can be made from corn waste.

The manufacturing center of the future, he predicts, will be the corn belt. Vast populations will no longer congregate on the seaboard.

Truly, the chemist is king. He can make and unmake industries, cities, states, and social orders. He is the important man of the twentieth century.

CHUCHNOVSKY WELCOME.

Chuchnovsky, the Russian aviator who performed so well in rescuing survivors of the Nobile fiasco in the Arctic, has accepted an invitation to visit New York, according to press dispatches.

Here is a pilot whom it will be a pleasure to greet. In his exploits in the northland he displayed heroism beyond that of most men; even among the courageous race of airmen he stands out.

Of course, timid souls will probably fear that to shake the hand of a Bolshevik aviator will cause the foundations of the republic to tremble, and some nitwit or other undoubtedly will try to have his visit called off; but it can be anticipated that America will give him a royal welcome. Bravery knows no international boundary lines.

LINDBERGH'S INCOME.

Treasury department estimates place Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's earnings during the past six months at approximately $204,000.

That is a pretty fair sort of income—one that even a heavyweight prize fighter or a carefully marketed movie actor might be proud of. And the flying colonel, to our way of thinking, has earned every dime of it.

It's refreshing to know that such a chap as Lindbergh, who scorned all the cheap, obvious methods of cashing in on his exploit, turned a deaf ear to the publicity agents and made it very plain that he isn't flying primarily for the money there is in it, can reap a golden reward just the same. There will be mighty few people, we suspect, who will begrudge it to him.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran has ordered dry agents to quit shooting innocent people. Even if the intention is only good clean fun?

A young man jumped off a steamer into the ocean because a girl told him to. Perhaps it's just as well they weren't on top of the Woolworth building.

William F. Varney is the Prohibition party's candidate for president. He enters the race under the handicap of having to carry water on both shoulders.

THE TINYMITES

STORY & HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES & KNICK

The wooden man exclaimed, "Hey, Hey! What made you trip me up that way? I wasn't doing any harm; just running down a hill. The way that Coppy tackled me was just as clever as could be, but when I took that sudden flop, it wasn't any thrill."

"I'm very sorry," Coppy said. "You landed plunk upon your head, but you do not look injured, so I guess it's not so bad. You see we built you just for play, and then you promptly ran away. That's why we chased you. Gee it was a merry run we had."

Then Clowny snapped, "I'll say it was. I guess I ought to know because I'm just as tired as I can be. My knees are shaky, too. Let's all sit down and rest a while." The wooden man began to smile. "Go right ahead, you Tinymites. I'll sit 'long side of you."

The whole bunch dropped upon the hill. "Of running I have had my fill," said Scouty. Then he asked the wooden man, "Aren't you tired out?"

"Oh, my no," came his quick reply. "You Tinymites forget that I am made of wood. Why I could run for days and days, no doubt."

Just then wee Coppy shouted, "Look! I see a pretty little brook. I wish we knew a way that we could reach the other side." The wooden man then yelled, "Hurray! I think I know of one good way. If all of you are good I'll take you for a water ride."

Right in the water he sat down, and started floating all around. "You see I will not sink," said he. "Cause I am made of wood. Just climb on me and we will ride quite safely to the other side." The Tinymites did as they were told, and all worked out real good.

(The wooden man is caught in a bonfire in the next story.)

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: "Thank You" asks: "Is there any way that broken muscles and tissues of the bust can be strengthened? It was caused by too light a binding."

ANSWER: It is quite normal for the breasts to drop down gradually after the birth of a child or even sometimes after puberty. Exercising the muscles of the chest will tend to strengthen the muscles lying under the busts, but this will seldom raise them to their original position. There is nothing injurious about this sagging, and you must not injure yourself by using treatments to eliminate a condition which is probably natural for your age.

QUESTION: Mrs. W. B. L. asks:

"Will you kindly tell me the difference between buttermilk and acidophilus

milk, and what would you advise taking for an acid stomach or intestinal indigestion?"

ANSWER: There is some difference

between buttermilk and acidophilus

milk, but not much difference in that which is commercially sold. Either of these milks makes an excellent diet to take for a short time, excluding all other foods, or a pint of either milk may be used in place of a meal.

QUESTION: Mrs. A. McD. asks:

"What would cause my husband to have a pain under the left shoulder blade? Several years ago that lung closed for some time when he suddenly stepped under a very cold shower. Could it be a result of that?"

shoulder usually come from either heart trouble or from some lung disorder such as you mention. If the lung has remained collapsed it may still be possible to open it up by having your husband take deep breathing exercises.

Thompson Pledges
Support for Whole
Republican Ticket

Chicago, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Mayor Thompson and his republican organization in Cook county expect to support the entire Republican ticket—national, state and county—in the coming election, said a letter from the mayor read today at the Republican county central committee meeting here.

The letter addressed to County Chairman Homer K. Galpin and dated July 17, declared for party unity and suggested calling the meeting being held today to endorse the entire Republican ticket.

"The fact that there may be some differences of opinion concerning this or that plank in the platform is of small importance compared with the importance of electing Republican officials in order that the principles of the party may be carried into administrative effect, "wrote the mayor." If there are any points upon which there are honest differences inside of the party, the proper place to settle them is within the party and not by failure to support legally nominated candidates.

This gesture of harmony by the Thompson forces who opposed virtually all the candidates of the Senator Deenen faction, nominated in the April primaries, was reported not to be entirely satisfactory to the victors who speculated as to where Robert E. Crowe, defeated state's attorney and a power in the Thompson forces, would throw his support.

With Dixon Boys in Militia Camp

BY JAS. KETCHIN
Co. A, 129th Inf.

Camp Grant, Rockford — After nearly a week of army summer camp routine, A Company, 129th infantry, Dixon's unit of the Illinois National Guard is progressing wonderfully. The fellows are knuckling down and already look nearly as good as some companies which have been organized for years.

Wednesday morning try-outs were held to see what companies looked good enough to practice in the battalion review which was held late in the afternoon. A Company passed the rigid inspection along with older and more experienced men which goes to prove that the men aren't laying down and that the officers are doing all that they can with green recruits.

A kangaroo court is held daily to try and to sentence men who are found guilty of company misdemeanors. The sentences imposed are painful and most of the boys try to escape, but their efforts prove unsuccessful, and those who try to go over the hill are brought back and their sentences are doubled. The penalties include running a belt line and having a chance to breathe the upper ozone with the aid of the judge's henchmen and a blanket. It behooves to behave in this company because the errant rookie gets away with little.

A Company has the cleanest and best looking tents in the regiment. Companies A, B, C and D of the 129th, mess in one hall. Each company furnishes two cooks for the camp period and three k.p.s. every day. Each man takes his turn at the k. p. and the fellows aren't fighting for a chance at it. Our mess has had the cleanest mess house banner twice.

Nelson "Doc" Camery, the smallest big-man in camp is suffering from sore pedal appendages. "Doc" wears a size 4 shoe and the smallest shoes in the issue were sixes. Large shoes cause blisters and "Doc's" feet are no exception. Today on the drill field our amiable Captain Dixon spied the midget nursing the tender "Dogs." "How is going, Doc?" queried the chief. "Can you manipulate those gunboats?"

"Yes, I can turn my feet allright, but I'll be darned if I can move the shoes", shot back the short soldier. "Doc" has earned the distinction of being the company wit.

Twelve boxing rings have been erected in camp, one for every regiment. The leather pushers are taking hold and are putting on some fast bouts. The fellows who hold grudges are requested to put on the gloves and settle it at once. These grudge fights are interesting and usually a knockout ends an argument. The negro regiment has a real ring show every night and it is worth a great deal to hear the witty bantering back and forth. These dark boys are clever with the padded mitts, too, and are not satisfied with a draw. They want some unfortunate colored boy to unconsciously kiss the canvass.

Matt Docter was among the Dixon folks who visited camp today. Matt went through the Spanish-American war with the old Company G and is interested in seeing how the boys do it nowadays. He says that the faces change in 30 years but that it is the same old army.

When A Company marches down the line everybody stops to look us over, their attention being attracted by our right guide, Sergeant Sam Tudor. Sergeant Tudor was a real hero during the World War and has about all the medals that a strong man can carry. He wears nearly as many ribbons on his chest as Howell & Page have in their store.

Corporal Fox is a wise old bird. He knows how to pick off soft jobs that excuse him from drill. Today he decided to attend the brigade gas school, thinking that he would spend the afternoon flat on his back beneath a shady tree. But, unfortunately it did not turn out so well. He had to march two miles in the broiling sun to find the school and then spent the afternoon throwing gas grenades. When he got back to the company this evening he was two pounds lighter than a cork and he is all through looking for the soft jobs.

Private John Green is learning to be a bugler. At least he says he is. Every morning after breakfast he tucks a bugle under his arm and starts out toward regimental headquarters, not to be seen again until noon. But nobody has heard him play any tunes yet and some of the boys are becoming suspicious.

Privates Keller, Miller and Morrison did the honors in the kitchen Wednesday. Peeling spuds gets monotonous but it has its advantages on a hot day.

Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., Aug. 2 —Company A, 129th Infantry, Illinois National guard arrived in camp Saturday after an unforeseen delay and immediately set to work, (after show) to make comfortable quarters. Some of the boys had not eaten since the night before and it was 3 o'clock before we could eat, so the army chow looked like chicken to the most of us.

Every man in the company is doing his best to make our outfit look presentable. Two regular army sergeants were assigned to A company yesterday and are helping with drill. To take a company of rookies and train them until they look like veterans is a hard job, but with the additional help it can be done. Our officers, Captain Dixon, first lieutenant Hensler and second lieutenant Wagner are very efficient and are making every effort to get this company into the limelight as the best trained rookie outfit in camp. Captain Dixon is working under a heavy handicap but every man realizes this and there is no shirking.

Governor's day is next Wednesday, and the fellows would like to see some of our skeptical Dixon friends and show them what a few weeks of intensive training will do in the way of making a regular out of a raw recruit.

Nelson Camery, known to the gang as Martin Durkin, was seen shortly before taps last night throwing a pair of spotted cubes into the company g. t. can. Evidently Lady Luck was sitting on some one else's lap.

"Moon" Reagan is the company's official wash lady. He will do anybody's clothes for a consideration.

Editorial
Forty-one young men from Dixon and vicinity are now at Camp Grant to receive their annual training. They constitute the local militia and we wonder if folks at home realize the sacrifice these boys make to keep up their drills during the year and that to go into camp for intensive training at this time of the year. These boys are interested in OUR COUNTRY. It wouldn't be much effort for Dixon people, during their camp, to further some move to send them boxes of smokes, goodies, etc., to prove to them that their efforts are not without some appreciation on the part of the public they serve and are ready to serve with their lives if the occasion arises.

Elks of State Will Meet in Tri-Cities

Moline, Ill., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Members of the B. P. O. Elks, a thousand strong, will invade the Tri-Cities next week for their annual state convention. It will be their "Silver Jubilee" meeting, and at least ten delegates from each of the hundred Elks clubs in the state are expected to be present.

Opening at 9 o'clock Tuesday, Aug. 7, the three-day session will be devoted chiefly to merrymaking. Two principal speakers will appear on the three-day program, both being officials of the Grand Lodge, B. P. O. E.

High lights of the convention will be the silver jubilee program and memorial service on the evening of August 7, at which former supreme court justice Floyd E. Thompson will speak; a state ritualistic contest on the afternoon of August 8; an address by James G. McFarland of Watertown, S. D., past grand exalted ruler of the national order, on Thursday morning; and a parade in the afternoon of the same day.

Several important business sessions are scheduled, including a meeting of the special welfare activity committee at which Bruce A. Campbell of East St. Louis, past state president of the Elks, will outline a welfare program for the Elks of Illinois.

Following registration early Tuesday, the Elks will engage in a trap shooting contest at the Tri-City gun club, followed immediately by a golf tournament at the Short Hills country club. From 3 to 6 o'clock that afternoon will be devoted to social sessions in the Elks Club gym. The Silver Jubilee services will be held Tuesday night.

Business sessions and the ritualistic contest will occupy the delegates' time the second day. In the afternoon, a stag party has been arranged, and a bridge party for visiting women. The Grand Ball will bring the convention to a close Thursday evening.

Among prominent Elks scheduled to give talks are, in addition to Mr. McFarland, J. E. Masters, grand secretary and former grand exalted ruler; Lloyd Maxwell, grand esquire; Charles E. Witt, assistant grand secretary; Dr. C. B. Logan, president of the Iowa Elks association; John Hampton, president of Indiana Elks; and William E. Hendricks, chairman of the grand lodge committee on state associations.

24 Y. M. C. A. BOYS ON EUROPEAN TOUR
A group of 24 boys, carefully selected from cities in all parts of the United States, is making a tour of Europe this summer, under the leadership of F. C. Clark of New York City. The local Y. M. C. A. has received a number of letters from the boys, all of whom are having a most wonderful time. Thus far they have visited Norway, Sweden, Finland and Denmark and are now enjoying a short sojourn in Switzerland. Wherever they go, they are taken in hand by the European Y. M. C. A. officials and entertained royally, being taken on auto tours to see the places of interest. The boys would like to remain in the Alps for several weeks but they will go to Spain and Italy this week after which they will visit some of the new republics.

Y POOL IS POPULAR

A large number of men and boys are availing themselves of the opportunity to swim in the pool at the Y. M. C. A. As the water is chemically and bacteriologically clean, this makes an ideal place to go during the unusually hot days that are now upon us. A goodly number of tourists stop at the Y every day because of this splendid feature.

Now that house cleaning time has arrived you may find articles of furniture you wish to dispose of. A 50c ad in the Dixon Telegraph is bound to bring results.

COOLIDGE VIEWS OPEN PIT MINES OF THE MISSABE

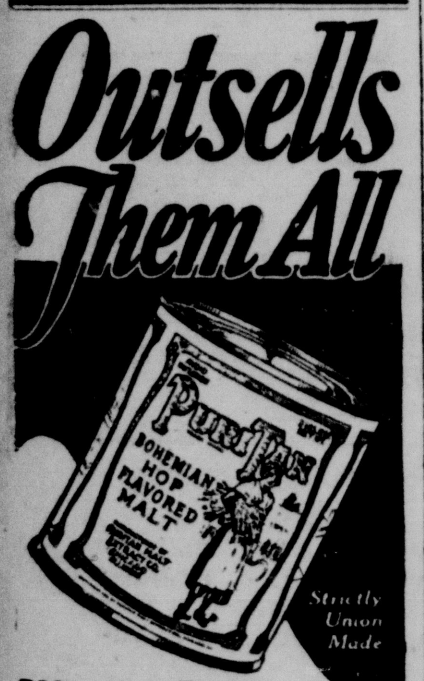

Visits Hibbing and Virginia to See Iron Supply Source

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 2.—(AP)—The Nation's chief source of iron ore supply—the iron ranges of northern Minnesota—were on display today for President Coolidge who had selected this occasion to venture from his summer headquarters for the second time since coming to this part of the country for his vacation. A picture of industrial activity awaited the presidential visit. Huge bowls sunk into the earth, resembling stadia of giants with rails, engines and tiny cars on each tier of seats; steam shovels picking up with apparent ease tons of "red dirt," placing them in cars and going back for more, making still more and deeper tiers. Figures of men, appearing on the other side of the bowl like ants crawling in and out of a sand pile—all of this and more could be seen from the observation platforms, built especially for the President at the edge of the large open pit mines near here.

The first on the President's program was the Hull-Rust-Mahoning mine, the largest open pit iron mine in the world. After a visit to the Susquehanna, another large open pit mine, the itinerary called for a ride through the city and a short stop at the local high school, one of the largest and most expensive in the country. A holiday at Hibbing. The morning was a half holiday by proclamation. The next stop on the President's program was Virginia, Minn., where the party was to be taken to the Missabe Mountain Mine, which is operated by the State of Minnesota. The President's host on the trip was W. A. McGonagle, President of the Duluth Missabe and Northern Railway.

SCARBORO NEWS

Scarboro—The Fellowship Supper given at the church in town on Thursday evening was attended by a large number of members and friends. About $45.00 was realized. The people from this community attending the funeral of Sidney Carney held in Rochelle Tuesday morning were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. H. Glaser, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kugler, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Thompson, H. B. Yetter, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Smith and Mrs. F. J. Schoenholz. Mr. Carney, who was recently killed Friday evening in an automobile accident near Rock Island was born and grew to manhood in this vicinity, receiving his early education in what is known as the Van Patten school. He later attended school at Evanston receiving a bachelor's degree and a Masters Degree from the state university at Champaign. He taught five years at Illinois. About three years ago he was appointed Farm Advisor of Rock Island county, which office he was filling at the time of his death. He was a 32nd degree Mason, was 39 years of age. He leaves his wife, aged mother, one brother, five sisters and a host of friends. Burial at Woodstock, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Always look for this Branding...

YOU can now identify Swift's Premium Hams and Bacon not only by the brand "Swift Premium" but also by the distinctive branding of the name "Swift" in dots on the side. This branding resembles the rich brown color of the broiled ham and bacon.

When it is being sliced by the dealer
After it is sliced and on display
When it is delivered to your home.

This distinct branding is just one more feature that has made Swift's Premium outstanding. Insist on this identification mark.

hospitality provided by the members of the Freeport Club, who left nothing undone to make the visit of the players enjoyable was remarked upon many times.

The business meeting of the association was held Wednesday evening, following a fine banquet, at which time the 1929 tournament was awarded to Janesville, with W. J. Lathrop of that city being elected president, G. X. Cannon of Freeport, vice president, and Tim Sullivan of Dixon, secretary and treasurer.

Women Play Next Week
The ladies teams of the association will play their tournament at Freeport next Wednesday and Thursday, and Dixon's fair golfers are planning to enter a team.

Galesburg—(AP)—Changes in the postal laws July 1 resulted in a reduction of nearly a million pounds of mail a month in the local post-office. Postmaster George M. Clark said.

For the past five years, five national magazines have used Galesburg as their redistribution point for Illinois, Missouri, and south and southwest states. Their issues were shipped here by freight and entered as mail. The new zoning rates make it possible to enter the magazines at publication points in the east at almost the same rate that was paid here.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

Good Thoughts for Good People

Paul was emphatic in his declaration that each has to make his own demonstration of spiritual progress, that each must win his own way into the kingdom.... Each, through the ministry of the Christ working in human consciousness, is to put off the false material beliefs—the seeming—which constitute personality, and gain the spiritual concept which reveals men's true identity as the son of God.

Christian Science Sentinel.
Let us labor for that larger and larger comprehension of truth, that more and more thorough repudiation of error, which shall make the history of mankind a series of ascending developments.

Horace Mann.
The worth of a state, in the long run, is the worth of the individuals composing it.

J. S. Hill.
Individuals, not stations, ornament society.
Before us, even as behind,
God is, and all is well.

Whittier.
Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus.... Wherefore, my beloved, as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling. For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure.

Paul.

Body of Capt. Carranza Is Honored In Mexico City

Here is the first picture to reach the United States showing the ceremonies attending the arrival at Mexico City of the body of Capt. Emilio Carranza, good-will aviator who was killed in a crash in New Jersey. The caisson is shown on an artillery caisson, escorted by a guard of honor through dense crowds.

Distinguished citizens of two nations stand at attention in the Cenotaph Room of the War Department building at Mexico City as the body of Capt. Emilio Carranza lies in state. At the left of the picture are the four American officers who accompanied the body to the Mexican capital. Next to them stands Carranza's father. U. S. Ambassador Dwight Morrow is indicated by the arrow.

OBITUARY

MRS. D. LOSTUTTER

Margaret Libbert was born in Dillsboro, Ind., Sept. 11, 183, and died at her home in Dixon July 30, 1928, at the age of 54 years, 10 months and 19 days. She was married to David Lostutter on May 23, 1898, and is survived by her husband; a son, William Lostutter of Dixon; a daughter, Jeannette Lostutter of Dixon; two sisters, Mrs. Fred Cross of Peoria, and Mrs. Alexander Wilson of Brooksville, Ky.; four brothers, Henry of Plymouth, Ind.; Edward of Aurora, Ind.; Louis of Dillsboro, Ind.; and Carl of Cincinnati, Ohio, and many other relatives and friends. Funeral services were conducted at the Staples Mortuary Thursday afternoon, Aug. 2, at 2 o'clock, Rev. W. W. Marshall of the First Baptist church officiating, and with burial in Oakwood cemetery.

SHELL MOTOR OIL

Protected by Shell Motor Oil you can tour with confidence

The terrific punishment of long trips at high speed has no terrors for SHELL MOTOR OIL. Just the right body... thin enough to flow freely and cushion every moving metal surface with a tough clinging film... heavy enough to stand the gaff.

When your foot has held the accelerator down on the floorboard for hours at a stretch, it is natural to be a little uneasy about the oil "standing up"—unless you are using SHELL.

SHELL MOTOR OIL is made for just such grueling service. The carefully selected crudes which are its base... the special refining process employed... and the specifications to which it is refined, to flow freely to every moving surface... thin enough through heat and friction unharmed.

Nobody forces a car to the limit all the time, but when you use Shell Motor Oil you have the comfortable feeling that your engine is always protected by a lubricant which will withstand a far more severe test than you could possibly give it.

In Gotham's, New Wet-Dry War

Here are three of the principal prohibition drama soon to be staged in characters in the spectacular pro in a New York federal court. A federal grand jury has indicted for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law 108 persons alleged to have been connected with the operation of 18 night clubs. Conviction is punishable by a fine of $10,000 and imprisonment of two years, but this doesn't seem to worry Texas Guinan, upper left, queen of Gotham's night world. Texas thinks this is just another of her many jousts with the law. But Mabel Walker Willebrandt, lower left, Assistant Attorney General who started the drive, has other ideas. Above is Nils T. Granlund, one-time radio announcer for station WHN, who was indicted for connection with the Frivoly Club.

LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 By NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

BERTIE LOU WARD marries ROD BRYER, who had previously been engaged to LILA MARSH. The latter amuses herself by telling their friends that she was Rod's first love, and continues to make life miserable for the bride until she meets a rich MIT. LORE and marries him. Then she asks Bertie Lou to forgive the past.

Trying to keep up socially with wealthy friends plunges the Bryers in debt and Rod becomes depressed. Lila seizes her chance to persuade him to accept a higher salary from Lore.

Shortly after, she asks Rod to put some jewels in the safe during her husband's absence. The jewels disappear, and Rod wants to notify the police, but Lila insists that they keep the matter secret, pointing out that suspicion against him might spoil his career. Bertie Lou finds out that he has been seeing Lila secretly and is heartbroken.

She is called home to her sick mother, and has to catch a train without seeing Rod. The separation, added to Lila's plotting, causes a coldness to spring up between them.

Bertie Lou returns on the eve of their first anniversary to find Rod apparently indifferent. Each expects the other to make advances. Rod goes to the Lorees without her, and Bertie Lou goes out with MARCO PALMER, a playmate. Coming home, Marco kisses her unexpectedly at the door and Rod sees it. He offers Bertie Lou a divorce, and she counters with the same offer to him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

"I'm glad you're awake," Rod remarked as Bertie Lou looked inquiringly at him from her lacy pillows. He came over and sat at the foot of the bed to talk to her.

Rod was struck by Bertie Lou's haggard appearance. "Better go easy on the night life," he said. "You look like the devil."

"Is that all you came in here to tell me?" Bertie Lou flamed. She was angry with herself for having fallen down so soon on the role of blasé indifference she wanted to assume.

"No, but I don't think it's out of order to warn you," Rod replied. "You will need your strength for housework after this. We won't be able to keep a maid."

Bertie Lou's delicate eyebrows came together in a quick frown. Rod had never explained why he suddenly cut her allowance in half. And now she was not to have a maid.

"You don't expect me to take care of this apartment alone, do you?" she asked, more as a leading question than was meant to draw out further information than because she felt unequal to doing the work if necessary.

"No, I don't," Rod assured her. "But we won't be here after the first. I'd have sublet the place before this if I'd found a tenant. But most people who can afford an apartment like this leave town for the summer," he added explanatorily.

Bertie Lou's brow cleared. "Are you taking a country place?" she asked.

"We're moving back where we were before we got high hat and came in here," Rod informed her shortly.

Bertie Lou could not repress an ejaculation of surprise. "Have you lost your position?" she asked, thinking that matters might have come to a crisis with him and Lila.

"No, I haven't, but I'm going to save some money if it's the last thing I do," Rod said decisively. "You can go and look at the apartment I've taken—it's smaller than the one we had—and see how much of this furniture we'll need. But I wish you would send back the things that aren't paid for."

"You've had all spring and most of the summer to pay for them!" Bertie Lou cried. "I'd like to know what you've done with your money. You certainly haven't given yourself writer's cramp sending checks to me!"

Rod felt tempted to tell her then and there why he was putting half of his salary aside. The reason Lila had given him for withholding news of the theft of the necklace and bracelets from Bertie Lou seemed to have lost their importance. But others had taken their place. Bertie Lou might rebel against his paying the amount of insurance Lila had carried on them.

That thought in his mind showed clearly Lila's subtle influence. At one time he'd have banked as strongly on Bertie Lou's desire to do the right thing, even if it appeared quixotic, as on his own willingness to meet his obligations. But now he was not sure.

She had been extravagant, heedless of his wish for a home of her love, and finally she had cooled his love by her neglect of him while she was away.

Had Rod asked himself why she had been neglectful he must have admitted that she hardly would have been so without a reason. It had come so suddenly, her coolness. But when it first became apparent to him that she had changed he was too perplexed about it to judge intelligently.

Now he had no desire to examine her motives. She had, with or without reason, ceased to love him. Rod was thankful for it, now. It saved him from a life of hypocrisy to keep her happy. But along with the departure of their love had fled much of Rod's faith in Bertie Lou's good qualities.

No, he concluded, he'd better not tell her about the theft if he wanted to save his money for Lila without having a lot of trouble over it.

"I've told you I'm saving," he said quietly, "but not to pay for gimcracks from Park Avenue decorators."

Bertie Lou regarded him through narrowed eyelids. She saw that he was firmly set in what he intended to do. But she would not give in meekly.

"I won't send back a thing," she said stubbornly. "If we're going back to live in that hole I'll take some decent furniture."

Rod stood up. "Do as you please," he said, "but you'll have to pay for it out of your household money."

BERTIE LOU found, as the summer wore into fall, that he had meant just what he said. She was hard pressed to meet the payments on the $400 radio and the costly

"gimcracks" she had purchased under Lila's guidance.

She began to think Rod was mean. He simply would not give her even a hint of his reason for tightening up the pursesstrings. If Bertie Lou suggested a show he said he'd prefer the movies. And they never went out on a party together any more.

Bertie Lou found many excuses for avoiding Lila. Rod still went often to the Lorees and Lila finally was driven to pretend to Cyrus that she and Bertie Lou had quarreled.

While Cyrus said nothing, it was his opinion that Rod was not exactly loyal to his wife. But then, he reflected, Rod might be thinking of his job. And besides, if Lila was right, Bertie Lou had turned out to be a giddy flapper wife. She was hinting a pretty fast pace with young Marco Palmer and his crowd, Lila had told him.

It was true. Bertie Lou became tired of doing her own housework, of counting pennies while Rod saved a lot of money each week, and wouldn't tell her what it was for. She could think of several uses he might have for it—and did. One of them was concerned with Lila and made Bertie Lou turn hot and cold with anger and dread.

Her hands were getting rough and reddened from peeling potatoes—they had them often because they were filling—and washing dishes. And she hated to answer the doorbell. Nobody came so often as the collectors.

But the thing that started her on an excess of mad pleasure seeking was the humiliation she felt over Rod's frequent visits to the Lorees without her. To Bertie Lou it was ample proof of his willingness to live "each in our own way," as he had said the night she came home with Marco Palmer.

For a while she had refused to go out with Marco again, but he let her know he hadn't forgotten her. Bertie Lou called him up one evening when Rod was dining with the Lorees. She was desperately lonely and heartsick. Marco came over for her and they went to a club and danced until two.

Then Bertie Lou insisted upon going home. She had to pass through the living room to reach the bedroom. Rod used the davenport. There was no guest room in this apartment.

He was not in. Bertie Lou stopped by the table at the head of the davenport and unplanned the corsage of orchids Marco had bought for her. She put them down, intending to place them in water later, but she entirely forgot about them in speculating as to Rod's possible whereabouts.

"Wouldn't it have been a scream if we'd met at a club? I could have sent Marco over to ask him if he'd dance with me," she murmured, pretending to be amused.

She sat propped up in bed reading the latest thriller until she heard Rod come in about an hour later. Even then she did not remember the orchids.

Rod saw them as he was making up his bed. The sight of the rich blooms told their own story. It was the first time he'd seen any evidence that Bertie Lou was living her life in a way that included orchids. But it did not mean that these were the first.

Rod and Bertie Lou never questioned each other. Rod often came in and went to bed without knowing whether Bertie Lou was home. Her door was always closed. Both knew, vaguely, and with forebodings of disaster, that the arrangement would not continue indefinitely.

THEIR marriage was a farce, a hollow mockery. Each was waiting for the other to make the overture toward a separation. Bertie Lou expected any day to learn that Lila had left Cyrus. Then would come her own divorce. For she would not seek to hold Rod.

Rod thought Bertie Lou would tell him some day that she wanted her freedom. He did not expect her to live on in this manner. For one thing she was too attractive to waste her life. . . . and she loved nice things. It was inevitable that she should meet, among Marco Palmer's wealthy friends, a man who would want to give them to her.

The thought of Bertie Lou married to another man was not as agreeable to Rod as it should have been in view of his own infatuation with Lila. He called himself a dog in the manger over it, and set himself to make it plainer than ever to Bertie Lou that she need not consider him an obstacle in any way. It was his method of paying himself off for feeling as he did.

Bertie Lou understood him to be leading up to a frank request for complete freedom. This was at dinner, following the evening she had called Marco. Until that moment she had hoped against hope that the inevitable hour might be long postponed.

She told Rod, quietly enough, that whenever she wanted to leave him she would do so. He would, she hoped, have no hesitancy about doing the same.

It was ghastly. Two beautiful young lives bound together with tender ties, calmly placed on a basis that was equivalent to a day-to-day endurance test.

Bertie Lou could not stand it. She threw herself into a very orgy of dissipation—dissipation of time, of beauty and of health. Sleep became practically a stranger to her and she discovered nerves that she had not known she possessed.

Rod rarely found her at home now—rarely saw her. There were no more meals in the apartment. Bertie Lou once offered to cut her household allowance, but Rod grimly refused. He was eating in cheap restaurants and cafeterias. Bertie Lou applied the money he refused on the debts he was paying off. He protested when he learned of it but she would not talk about it.

The strain of their artificial relations began wearing on Rod. He came home one day to dress for one of Lila's dinners, and saw with a mixture of relief and consternation that Bertie Lou was packing her suitcase.
